

Customer testimonial March 2010

Robert Smyth, regular guest

Room represents all that we want as couple from a restaurant. First and foremost the food is excellent, with a superb range to choose from and quirky twists, for example, the excellent 'surf and turf'.

The wine list is cleverly put together and one can always find something a little different, for example a Canadian red. Room, for me is an example of a restaurant that puts quality and consistency at the top of their agenda.

I have always found the staff friendly and helpful, and well informed when explaining the menu choices. They will go the extra mile when special requests are asked for, something that I find is sadly lacking in city centre restaurants. The wine club represents excellent value for money and an education in all things related to wine and accompanying food.

Room's success is built on a good food and wine and a committed team who genuinely care about their customers and their dining experience I look forward to dining there for many years to come.
